UFI Media Partners
Welcome

Dear colleagues and friends,

Beginning of February, UFI released figures stating the impact of COVID-19 on the global exhibition economy in 2020. COVID-19 has had a significant impact on the exhibition industry all over the world. However, shows are being organised again in safe and secure environments. Hopefully, with the first roll out of vaccines, we will be able to meet again, face-to-face.

As I said before, the global economy is expected to see a significant recovery this year. UFI, on its part, will maintain its focus on COVID-19 related developments, while continuing to drive industry advocacy efforts, provide regular research, expand its educational offerings, and promote equality.

Indeed, in recognition of International Women’s Day 2021, UFI will raise awareness about women’s equality in exhibitions and celebrate women’s achievements. This topic has been addressed during several UFI connects sessions last year and will be at the centre of attention on 9 March during a dedicated session.

I am happy to state that there are more than twice as many women on the UFI Board of Directors as there were just one year ago. Women now make up 28% of the total number of Board members. For the first time in its history, since its formation in 1925, UFI had its first female president when Mary Larkin headed it last year.

Figures speak for themselves: there are around 70% of women at entry level in our industry, and only approximately 10% of women at senior level. Yet studies have shown that more diversity in senior management makes business sense. What can we do to help address this and encourage women to reach higher?

In my opinion, we are successfully demolishing the barriers of gender inequalities and moving towards an equal representation of women workforce in the exhibition industry worldwide.

This month also marks the departure of Sonia Thomas and I take the opportunity to salute her contribution to the association and more broadly to the industry. Sonia will leave the association in late March to set up her own business.

Sonia has played a significant role in developing UFI’s activities and has built strong relationships with members all over the world. She has been an immense source of strength and support to UFI and its members. On behalf of the UFI community, I would like to send my warm thanks to Sonia and wish her all the success she deserves.

Marie-Laure Bellon is the new COO of the association from 1st March onwards, and I am very pleased to welcome her. I look forward to working with her. Marie-Laure’s experience in the exhibition industry will be an asset in leading UFI activities and it also proves that UFI promotes equality at its core.

UFI is here to support you, and this packed edition of UFI Info proves that yet again.

Best regards,

Anbu Varathan, UFI President
Dear colleagues,

March is the month when, normally, the show season reaches one of the annual peaks around the world. Yet, one year into the COVID-19 pandemic, venues around the world are serving as vaccination centres and emergency hospitals still in many cases, rather than welcoming show attendees.

In doing so, our venue colleagues are putting into practice skills and expertise of our industry. Last year, we already aggregated and shared best practices around the conversion of venue spaces into temporary medical facilities. This month, again in collaboration with our G3 partners AIPC and ICCA, we will release a follow up report that covers the specific use of venues as vaccination centres. Please look out for it.

As the global rollout of vaccines picks up speed, some markets are already well ahead in immunizing their citizens: The UAE, the UK, and increasingly also the US are three nations where a fast-growing share of the population has been vaccinated. Within the European Union, slowly but surely, the speed of vaccinations is picking up as well. In parallel, a plentitude of rapid tests have been licensed and rolled out around the world, allowing for daily testing where needed and useful to reopen societies and businesses.

It is high time now to align international regulations and processes so that both tested and vaccinated people can travel normally to do business. UFI supports the work of many players in the travel industry to roll out standardised vaccination certification (“vaccination passports”) and testing documentation in digital formats. Through the “European Exhibition Industry Alliance” – a cooperation between UFI and EMECA in Europe – we make our industry’s voice heard in Brussels and across Europe. You can always read the latest policy statements on the UFI Blog, and we have an update on the issue in this UFI Info as well. What EEIA does in Brussels is also being set up in Washington, DC, where the newly formed “Exhibition & Conference Alliance” (ECA) will drive advocacy for our industry with our own voice.

Besides the push for vaccination passports, the other defining issue is the need that governments provide clear and reliable guidance and timetables that show when exhibitions and business events can take place again. Country by country, market by market, we need politicians to understand the lead time we need before a show opens, and the factors that need to be in place for exhibitors and visitors to book to attend.

In late February, the UK announced such a reopening timeline for the country, tied to pandemic milestones. Within hours after the announcement, exhibitors sent in their bookings for shows later in the year – showing yet again the eagerness of industries to return to the show floor. We will continue to support all our colleagues in their respective markets to keep pushing for other governments to follow the British lead.

Because, as we can see again and again: Where shows reopen and take place – recently in Japan, and Dubai, and Abu Dhabi, and in the US – business is brisk, order books are filled, jobs are secured, and sectors can rebounce from the COVID-19 slump.

Before I close, a very warm welcome to Marie-Laure Bellon, who joined UFI as our association’s new COO on March 1. I am excited to jointly work with her going forward. As an experienced exhibition organiser and a seasoned industry professional herself, we will all benefit from the industry knowledge that she brings to the global UFI team. As our parting COO, Sonia Thomas, will work jointly with Marie-Laure this month to ensure a seamless transition.

As of April, Sonia will then leave UFI to set up her own business. On behalf of the whole UFI team and membership, I would like to thank her for the unique part she has played in developing UFI as the global association for our industry in the various roles she had as her career evolved within UFI!

Best Regards,

Kai Hattendorf, UFI Managing Director / CEO
Welcome to UFI’s new COO

Marie-Laure Bellon joined UFI as the new COO

On 1 March Marie-Laure Bellon joined UFI from Eurovet, the world-leading trade show organiser for lingerie and swimwear, and a subsidiary of Comexposium and the French Knitting and Lingerie Federation.

At Eurovet, she held various senior executive positions over the years. These roles involved the strategic positioning and restructuring of the business, launching new activities in Asia and the United States, and leading the overall international development of the organisation. Her career also includes leadership positions in management as well as business development for Reed Expositions France.

Marie-Laure Bellon says: “I am delighted to take on this role at UFI and to add my skills and experience to the impressive work that the team has done over the years. UFI holds a pivotal position in driving industry advocacy efforts and in keeping the industry connected and updated during these tough times. I look forward to this opportunity to serve the industry and to face the challenges that await me.”

She takes over the role of UFI COO from Sonia Thomas, who will leave the association in late March after many successful years, to set up her own business.

“On behalf of the whole UFI team and membership, I would like to thank Sonia for the unique part she has played in developing UFI as the global association for our industry in all of the roles she has held,” says Kai Hattendorf.

Dates for the UFI Spring Conferences are out

Mark your diaries to attend our regional events for Asia-Pacific, MEA, and Europe

Preparations are under way for this year’s regional UFI conferences, and we are happy to announce the dates and formats for them as follows:

- 20 May, 2021: UFI Asia-Pacific Conference (online)
- 26 May, 2021: UFI MEA Conference (face-to-face, on site in Dubai, UAE)
- 9-10 June, 2021: UFI European Conference (online)

We are thrilled to offer the MEA Conference as an in person event in Dubai, given the fact that business events have resumed there in December 2020. The ongoing pandemic situation and the existing travel restrictions both across Asia-Pacific and Europe are forcing us to run the respective conferences there as online events.

Registrations for these events will open later this month. You can already pre-register and sign up for updates on these events on the UFI website - our event calendar is just a click away: ufi.org/our-events

Plans are under way as well for a regional conference for Latin America, and we will update you accordingly.

UFI releases figures stating the impact of COVID-19 on the global exhibition economy in 2020

Exhibitions have a direct impact on numerous sectors

UFI recently released an updated COVID-19 damage assessment for the global exhibition and trade show industry, covering the full year of 2020.

Figures show that global industry revenues for 2020 dropped by 68%, compared to 2019. This result is based on regional data provided in the UFI Global Exhibition Barometer released last week, which indicates that 2020 revenues represented only 23% of those from 2019 in Central and South America, rising to 24% in the Middle East and Africa, 27% in the Asia-Pacific region, 32% in Europe and 36% in North America.

Exhibitions have a direct impact on numerous sectors in the regions where they take place – not just the exhibition industry (venues, organisers and service providers), but all related sectors, such as accommodation, restaurants and transport.

Taking all of these sectors into account, it is estimated that a minimum of €200 billion (USD 224 billion) of total exhibition-related output was not generated in 2020, including €80 billion (USD 90 billion) in North America, €65 billion (USD 73 billion) in Europe and €46 billion (USD 52 billion) in the Asia-Pacific region.

This equates to 2.4 million full-time jobs affected globally.

Exhibiting companies use face-to-face events to generate contacts that lead to business, either at or soon after the event, and the non-tenure of most exhibitions in 2020 has led to an estimated €330 billion (USD 370 billion) of business volume affected. While a small fraction of that loss may have been compensated for specific sectors, with the development of purely digital solutions, the net impact remains very high.

“COVID-19 has had a significant impact on the exhibition industry, as well as those sectors who benefit from face-to-face events. The impact has not just been felt by exhibitors, who showcase their products and develop their sales, but also by those involved in ‘tourism-related’ activities. We all look forward to the lifting of current restrictions and the rebound of our economies, where exhibitions will play an important role,” says Kai Hattendorf, UFI Managing Director and CEO.

The 26th UFI Global Barometer survey, released on 26 January 2021, can be downloaded at ufi.org/research. In line with UFI’s objective to provide vital data and best practices to the entire exhibition industry, it is available for free.

UFI Awards 2021
Last call to enter, entries close on 16 March

As an association, UFI offers platforms for sharing best practices and honouring outstanding activities in our industry – including a prestigious award programme, globally recognised for more than a decade.

Organisers, venue operators and service providers are all encouraged to take part and share their best practice cases across six separate categories: HR Management, Industry Partners, Digital Innovation, Marketing, Operations and Services, and Sustainable Development.

All awards share the same application deadline – 16 March 2021 – and are managed and led by their respective UFI Working Groups, which are made up of experts who identify a current and common focal point within each area of our industry.

The winner for each category will be officially recognised at the 2021 UFI Global Congress. They will also have the opportunity to present their winning projects as part of the Global Congress programme.

Final entries are also promoted on the UFI website – ufi.org – and will benefit from significant media coverage in major international tradeshow publications.

The respective themes for the 2021 UFI Awards are as follows.

- Marketing: “Best marketing strategy in challenging times” (see: ufi.org/award/the-2021-ufi-marketing-award/)
- Industry Partners: “Alliances and success stories: the future of the exhibition industry during and post the pandemic” (see: ufi.org/award/the-2021-ufi-industry-partners-award/)
- Digital Innovation: “Digital Innovation for the Exhibition Industry Recovery” (see: ufi.org/award/the-2021-ufi-digital-innovation-award/)
- Operations and Services: “Digital Transformation: the role of operations and services in revitalising the events industry post-COVID-19” (see: ufi.org/award/the-2021-ufi-operations-and-services-award-2021/)
- Sustainable Development: “Partnerships for Sustainability in and after COVID-19 times” (see: ufi.org/award/the-2021-ufi-sustainable-development-award/)

UFI Exhibition Management School

The UFI-EMS welcomed a new class of industry professionals

The second UFI-Exhibition Management School, UFI-EMS was successfully organised online. Across four weeks, the programme offered participants from more than ten countries and regions an unparalleled learning environment and networking opportunities.

The curriculum included ten sessions delivered in English by experienced senior-level managers from leading organisers, with a special focus on the Middle East and Africa region.

“I’m proud to be part of the UFI-EMS, which provides the opportunity to bring together and support the current and future talent of the global exhibition industry. Never has there been a more prudent time for our industry to learn, adapt and evolve, and to continue to do what we do best – deliver meaningful events that are fundamental to regional and global economies.” Ashley Roberts, General Manager at Omanexpo and UFI-EMS lecturer.

The sessions included group work, case studies, best practices and more. The programme covered core areas of exhibition management, including budget, profit and loss, customer centricity and care, cross-channel exhibition marketing, digital innovation, global business development, human resources and leadership, agile cross-sales strategies, and strategy creation and development. The programme was delivered as a partnership between UFI and MBB-Consulting Group.

The programme also included a mandatory final exam.

“I thoroughly enjoyed the UFI-EMS course and being able to interact with other event professionals from all over the world. The focal points and priorities were slightly different when working on projects, but the overall goals were the same, and this was really interesting to learn. I look forward to keeping in touch with this great group of people and, hopefully, meeting them in person in the future.” Amie Gonzalez, Director at Informa Markets and UFI-EMS participant.

UFI extends a massive thank you to all of the industry experts who have worked tirelessly to give back to the industry, by offering their expertise and time to deliver the UFI-EMS.

These include:
- Alexander Angus, Business Development Director at Montgomery Group
- Matthias Tesi Baur, CEO at MBB-Consulting Group
- Wilbert Heijmans, Group Managing Director at Info Salons (a Freeman company)
- Ashley Roberts, General Manager at Omanexpo
- Stephanie Selesnick, President at International Trade Information, Inc.
- Carol Weaving, Managing Director at Reed Exhibitions South Africa

Following the success of the first two editions of the UFI-EMS, we are currently planning the next course. For more details, please contact ems@ufi.org. Find out more about the UFI-EMS programme at ufi.org.
An update on the audit certificates
For all UFI approved events/international events 2021

UFI highly recommends that audits of exhibitor and visitor numbers by an UFI certified third-party auditor should be done where and when possible for all UFI Approved Events taking place around the world this year.

However, with COVID-19 continuing to disrupt the exhibition industry, and many exhibitions being cancelled or postponed, those exhibitions that have taken place have seen a reduction in exhibitor and visitor numbers due to the pandemic.

Due to these very exceptional circumstances, UFI has decided to temporarily postpone the mandatory requirement to provide audited figures for visitor and exhibitor numbers for all UFI Approved Events taking place in 2021. This is a temporary measure directly related to the pandemic, and this decision will be revoked as soon as the situation improves.

As a reminder, UFI requires audit certificates for every other edition of an UFI Approved Event, except for exhibitions that take place less frequently than once every two years. In these instances, every edition of these exhibitions must be audited to retain UFI Approved Event status.

If you have any questions, please contact info@ufi.org.

This new format allows industry professionals to stay connected and join their peers from different sectors and countries to innovate, share their ideas and vision, debate and continue to help the industry move onwards and upwards! Engaging content and challenges will be presented to participants, and sessions will include team working in smaller groups, giving everyone the chance to actively contribute by sharing solutions and asking questions.

The Monthly Innovation Talk series will run once or twice a month, and there will be two time slots – 08:00 and 16:00 (UK time) – to choose from. The first talk will take place on 23 March 2021.

Chairman of the new Monthly Innovation Talk series, Stefan Rummel, says: “Digital transformation can lead to huge value creation for our customers and our industry. In particular, digital and the use of AI have the potential to become a game changer in a variety of areas within our companies. News from Latin America

Latin America moving forward as 56% of the markets has reopened

Great news from this region is that Buenos Aires and five other cities in Argentina are ready to restart MICE industry tourism from the 1st of March. At the beginning, the events will include the public only at national level, and as borders begin to reopen, regions will be added until they can return to normal with international visitors.

With the reopening of events in Argentina, 56% of the markets of Latin America would be operating today with certain restrictions and following their national safety protocols, as it is displayed in UFI’s Market Status Tracker.

In other news, the first Latin America State Aid for COVID-19 document was published on the UFI Coronavirus Resources webpage. The document includes information of 15 countries of the region and lists support from the Latin American governments to businesses in general, as well as the exhibition industry in particular.

News from Middle East Africa

The International Defence Exhibition in Abu Dhabi & Gulfood in Dubai

The United Arab Emirates made the news during the week 21-26 February as the country hosted 2 mega-scale exhibitions and summits live and in-person.

The trade shows were held in, and organised by, Abu Dhabi National Exhibition Center and Dubai World Trade Centre respectively, both proud UFI members.

“Staging such large international trade shows while the world is still bearing the consequences of COVID19 pandemic is a clear manifestation of the power of face-to-face when coupled with added-value digital services”, says Naji El Haddad, UFI regional director for the MEA region.

Both ADNEC and DWTC have implemented the highest standards and best practices related to safety and sanitisation providing the attendees with a safe environment for doing business and networking.

UFI will hold its regional conference for the Middle East & Africa region next May 26th in Dubai, UAE, live in-person. Hosted by Dubai World Trade Centre (DWTC), the much-awaited industry gathering will include expert talks, case studies, technology highlights, research findings reveal and more, with networking at the heart of it. News from Europe

Europe gets ready to reopen

While Russia remains the only European country currently running exhibitions, more will soon join them. The Spanish Minister of Commerce, Industry and Tourism confirmed at a press conference at IFEMA last month that Fitur would go ahead from 19-23 May with the full support of the national and Madrid government and with the cooperation of the national airline Iberia. While IFEMA has also announced another two shows in March and April, Fitur was declared “of national importance” and will welcome business travellers from all over the world, made possible by a strict Covid-19 testing policy.

The UK government has announced a roadmap for the resumption of all large-scale events from 21 June pending certain health targets are met. The Netherlands have successfully completed a second pilot event in the last month at Jaarbeurs in Utrecht.

Please continue to check the Coronavirus resource page on the UFI website, for updated information about countries reopening, from documents including the Exhibition Market Tracker (below, left) and the “European State Aid for Covid-19” (below, right) which has been updated and reformatted by the EEIA.

The European Commission reviews the EU trade strategy

Europe moves to organise safe travel
The European Exhibition Industry Alliance increased its advocacy intensity in the last weeks and among which direct contacts with policymakers and the publication of another Position Paper. In this Paper, EEIA welcomed the European Council plan to develop digital vaccination certificate and called upon EU Tourism Ministers to safely restore travel in a coordinated approach. It can be accessed here.

Following high pressure from the entire travel and tourism ecosystem, including EEIA, important steps forward towards digital health passes and more concrete plans for reopening travel were announced on 1st March by the European Commission. The aim is to set a common direction towards opening and travelling safely in the EU and abroad. The Commission plans to introduce a package of legislative proposals including a digital green pass that proves a person has been vaccinated against the coronavirus. Additionally, to prevent discrimination, the pass should also include results of recent COVID-19 tests or proof of immunity. The package of measures shall be adopted during this month of March. The digital green certificate is planned to be in place in three months.

The European Commission has set out its trade strategy for the coming years.
Reflecting the concept of open strategic autonomy, it builds on the EU’s openness to contribute to economic recovery by supporting green and digital transformations, and the fundamental transformation of the economy to become climate neutral. There is also a renewed focus on strengthening multilateralism and reforming global trade rules, to bring in fairer and more sustainable approaches. The strategy prioritises a major reform of the World Trade Organization, including global commitments on trade and climate, new rules for digital trade, reinforced rules to tackle competitive distortions, and restoring its system for binding dispute settlement. Where necessary, the EU will take a more assertive stance in defending its interests and values, including through new tools. Tourism Manifesto calls for exit strategy to restart travel and tourism.
The European Tourism Manifesto alliance calls for the development of a concrete EU roadmap to restart travel and tourism. Such a roadmap should be developed by the EU in close cooperation with industry and social partners, primarily via a newly created Commission Task Force for the Restoration of the Free Movement of People. This Task Force should base itself on risk-based and data-driven assessments, to identify the conditions and prospective scenarios under which current restrictions to international travel could be reconsidered and ultimately lifted in a coordinated manner across the EU and beyond. In particular, it would track the progress and impact of ongoing vaccination campaigns, as well as mitigation measures such as health safety measures, testing and quarantines, on travel within the EU and internationally. The paper details some recommendations that could be integrated in such a roadmap, supported by travel and tourism stakeholders, including the European Exhibition Industry Alliance (EEIA). The full paper is available at tourismmanifesto.eu This paper has been published on the UFI blog, and can be accessed here.

TCEB & 13 Key Associations Go Proactive with 20-Million-Baht Scheme & Supports to Thailand’s MICE Industry

To tackle new emerging cases of the COVID-19 pandemic, Thailand Convention and Exhibition Bureau (TCEB) and 13 associations from MICE and travel industries proudly present a series of meaningful efforts for the “Thailand A Safer Place for Meetings” campaign to stimulate the increase of domestic MICE traffic through special events, human development programs as well as high health and safety standards.

Upon TCEB’s President Mr. Chiruit Isarangkun Na Ayuthaya, this campaign successfully created 1,049 group meetings in over 50 city destinations, and welcomed 62,000 delegates last year, resulting in more than 130-million-baht revenue generated nationwide. In 2021, TCEB has furthered our financial injection of 20 million baht as an initial budget together with strong supports from related associations to maintain this success momentum for local and international events’ immediate and long-term plans by (1) Implementing marketing promotion for entrepreneurs, (2) Stimulating regional activities to boost local economies, (3) Elevating events' hygiene and safety standards, (4) Supporting public agencies’ activities, (5) Attracting international MICE events to Thailand, and (6) Pushing for government policy support.

Relatively, to align with the Royal Thai Government’s policy to promote the national economy, TCEB’s Exhibition Department has launched our flagship agenda, “Thailand’s LOG-IN Event Series II” which covers all relevant 12 S-curve sectors particularly in Eastern Economic Corridor (EEC) in Thailand, as part of our continuous supports to all stakeholders in Thailand’s exhibition industry.
